New Hampshire New Business Checklist

Your business application has now been submitted and is under review by our staff. In most cases, filings are processed within 14 days of receipt. Once you receive notice that your application has been approved, here are some next steps for you to consider.

Beneficial Ownership Report (BOI) to U.S. Department of the Treasury
Effective January 1, 2024, Federal Law requires each new business entity to file a report within 90 days of formation listing its beneficial owners. Please review FinCen's Small Entity Compliance Guide at www.fincen.gov to determine if you are required to file or if you need assistance. Some exceptions apply, but companies that fail to file may be subject to both civil and criminal penalties.

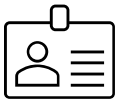

Federal Employer Identification Number (EIN)
Obtain an EIN from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) if your business will have employees or if it elects to be taxed as a corporation. You can apply free for an EIN online through the IRS website.

State Business Licenses and Permits
Identify any specific occupational licenses or permits required for your profession. Visit the New Hampshire Office of Professional Licensure and Certification website or contact the appropriate state agencies to determine the necessary licenses and permits.

City/Town Business Licenses and Permits
Some New Hampshire cities and towns also require a local business license for certain activities. Please contact your city/town hall for requirements and any local zoning ordinances.

Employer Basics
Register with the N.H. Department of Employment Security within 30 days of hiring your first employee and report new hires. Workers' Compensation coverage is required for businesses with one or more employees. See the N.H. Department of Labor Employee Compliance Checklist for more information.

Protect Your Brand – Register a Trademark

If you are going to build a brand for yourself in the marketplace, brand protection is important. If you have a logo, consider registering it as a state or federal trademark. You may search or apply for a state trademark registration by visiting NH Quickstart.

Ongoing Compliance – How to stay in GOOD STANDING

There are ongoing requirements and compliance obligations for LLCs and corporations in New Hampshire. Make sure you do the following to keep your business in good standing:

- Submit your Annual Report, along with the annual fee of $100.00, to the Secretary of State each year BY APRIL 1st.
- Report changes in officers, directors, managers, or members; business or mailing address; or business email promptly by filing a free Business Information Change.
- If applicable, be sure to maintain your registered agent in New Hampshire to act as your authorized representative to accept legal service on behalf of the business.

Please note that this checklist provides a general overview and should not be considered legal advice. You should consult with professionals to address your specific requirements and circumstances when starting a business in New Hampshire.
